A well-defined and typical Chianti Rufina with aromas and flavors of berries and cherries, as well as darker, savory notes of bark and dried herbs. Medium body and grainy tannins that have a dusty-oak coating that absorbs the fruit flavors nicely and gives a long, firm and a slightly bitter, licoricy finish. From organically grown grapes. Drinkable now, but will be better integrated in 2023.

Lots of blackberries on the nose, tinged with lightly toasted oak that blossoms into full, chocolatey character on the palate. Medium-bodied with a rough-velvet texture to the tannins and a controlled, tasty finish. From organically grown grapes. Delicious to drink now, but will hold for a while, too.
